WOULD CALL CASS COUNTY GRAND JURY

Petitions Out For Grand Jury
To Reinvestigate Scandinavian-American Bank

The second attempt to place the blame for the misconduct of the affairs of the Scandinavian-American bank of Fargo was started this morning by the filing of petitions, bearing the names of Geo. F. Shafer, Attorney General, and H. F. Horner, states attorney for Cass county, were circulated calling for a Cass County Grand Jury to reinvestigate the affairs of the closed bank. These petitions are to be presented to Judge Cooley, of Grand Forks, in the near future, no date of presentation having been included in the petitions.

The first attempt to place the blame for the misconduct of the affairs of the closed bank was dismissed as faulty by Judge McKenna of Napoleon, after the jury had brought in over thirty indictments against eleven men. The Supreme Court sustained Judge McKenna in his decision.

The petition alleges that over four hundred dollars of money from the Bank of North Dakota was on deposit in the bank at the time it was closed and that the greater part of this will never be recovered.

The petition also alleges, that money was loaned to officers in excess of the legal limit; that money was loaned to officers without authority of board of directors; that loans were made to insolvent concerns in which the officers were interested; that officers of the bank made false reports to the bank examiners; that large sums were embezzled by employees of the bank without punishment; that deposits were received by the bank while it was known to be insolvent; that false entries were made by the officers.

It is also charged that the bank was reopened, after being declared insolvent, by fraudulent reports to the Supreme Court and that the bank received large sums after it was reopened.

Tromsø, Norway, Sept. 21.—The fjords in the extreme north, in the region of Tana and Vadsø, have been literally blocked into a semi-solid state by herring shoals. The shoals often penetrate to the narrow heads of the fjords where they wedge tight into the jetties of small villages and fishing stations.

Several ships have been sent to the north to take advantage of the herring and others have arrived at the herring-oil factories heavily laden.

He said that the elevators which had failed to submit bonds should do so immediately, in order to continue in operation.

ERECT LARGE WHITE "W" AT WESTERN

Gunnison, Col., Sept. 21.—A huge white "W" gleaming from the heights of Tenderfoot mountain, will greet students returning to Western State college here for the fall semester. The letter, said to be the largest college letter in the world, was constructed by students at the close of the last spring term. It stands 350 feet high, with a spread at the widest point of 400 feet. The lines are 16 feet wide.

Student engineers drew the diagram on the face of the mountain and filled it with stones. Lime was carried up in buckets from the foot of the mountain and the letter whitewashed.

Western State claims to be the highest educational institution in the country as regards altitude. It is nearly 8,000 feet above sea level, and Tenderfoot mountain, rising from the outskirts of the town, towers several thousand additional feet.

CREDITORS OF PACKING PLANT MEET IN FARGO

Small Army of Lawyers With Claims Attend Meeting of Creditors of Company

ARE CHECKING UP

First Check Up on Books
Takes Place Yesterday; Will Complete Them Today

Fargo, Sept. 21.—A small army of lawyers with claims against the Equity Co-operative Packing Company attended the first meeting of the creditors of the concern which opened yesterday morning before Emerson H. Smith, referee in bankruptcy. The meeting, which continues today, is being held in the court room of the local federal building. Only a few of the 17,000 stockholders were present.

Yesterday's session completed the first checkup on claims and these were accepted subject to the objections which may be made by attorneys representing various creditors after the investigation which will be begun this morning. Officers of the bankrupt company will be examined by attorneys for creditors with a view of determining the status of the firm's affairs, it was announced.

Hearing Starts Today

Various books and records were ordered by the referee yesterday to be produced at the hearing today. It was indicated that President C. W. Reichert will be the first one called to the stand this morning. Other officials were notified yesterday afternoon to be on hand today.

Among the attorneys presenting claims and representing various stockholders, who were present at the hearing yesterday were former Governor John Burke, V. R. Lovell, J. E. Hendrickson, Judge W. H. Barnett, A. G. Divet, Colonel M. C. Hildreth, John Pellcock and G. Doshand of Moorhead. Harry Lashkovitz represented the petitioners in bankruptcy.

Several hundred claims by holders of certificates of indebtedness were presented. Attorney Lovell, who represented the First National Bank of Cavalier, declared in course of the hearing yesterday that he would object to these claims in due time, but said he first wanted to examine the officers of the packing company to find out if the presentation of these claims was a concerted action instigated by interested parties for the purpose of controlling the election of trustees.

It transpired during the hearing, upon the admission of Attorney Lashkovitz for the company, that all certificates of deposit were secured claims for which $200,000 in notes held by the company had been pledged as security by the board of directors. These notes are now with a Minneapolis firm for collection.

Gov. Burke Objects

Governor Burke objected to the election of a trustee yesterday before the officers of the company had not yet ready to admit that they company is bankrupt. "We want to investigate this matter first and if it is found that the company is insolvent then we can proceed with the election of a trustee," said he.

The motion by Mr. Lovell that the officers be questioned and books and records of the firm examined was allowed by the referee. There was no objection on the part of counsel for the company.

LEGISLATORS CONTINUE PLAN FOR SESSION

Governor Sends Out Plea To Lovers of Constitutional Government for Funds

FIGHTS BACK TO WALL

Legislators Have No Fear of Oklahoma's Executive Jail-
ing Them for Meeting

Tulsa, Sept. 21.—Preparations were being made by opponents of Gov. Walton to launch a court proceeding to remove the military overseers from the office of Sheriff Sanford. It was expected suit would be filed late today or Saturday morning, it was said by Rep. Disney, a house leader who is directing the move.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 21.—Legisla- tors seeking the official head of Gov. J. C. Walton marched on today to their plans for impeachment while the executive gathered strength for a final drive on the plan which he blames for the storm aroused.

"The invisible empire shall not pass in this state," was the defiance hurled by the governor as he turned with his back to wall. The lower house of the legislature will convene at noon Wednesday to consider charges of interfering with the constitutional government and if the governor interferes "he acts" at his peril. This was the pronouncement of legislators who will seek impeachment of the governor.

Walton's attitude toward the house session was expected to be developed during the day but his legislative enemies were confident that he would not carry out his threats to jail the house members if they attempted to assemble. Since voicing his threat some of the governor's legal advisers have urged him to permit the session as they said it would be illegal and without effect. However the final word remained and the threat has not been withdrawn. Admitting the fight was weighing heavy on his shoulders the governor sent out an appeal for funds, asking those who believe in a representative form of government to send contributions to "Mrs. Al-drich Blake, Oklahoma City, wife of the executive counsel."

Mr. Blake now is absent from the state on a mission for the governor. Governor Walton said: "I have crossed the Rubicon and it is a fight to the finish."

69 Sign Petition.

Oklahoma City, Sept. 21.—A special session of the lower house of the Oklahoma legislature to hear charges that Governor J. C. Walton has over-riden the constitution and laws of the state in his martial law regime is assured, it was announced by W. C. McBea, house representative in charge of the fight on Walton.

Sixty-nine legislators have attached their names to the bill for the convening of the house at noon Wednesday, McBea said. Fifty-four constitutes a majority.

That Governor Walton will not use troops to prevent the assembly, despite his earlier threats to the contrary, was the prediction of McBea and his associates.

Declares Session Illegal.

In a statement, Murray F. Gibbons, speaker of the house and a Walton supporter, declared that the session would be illegal. He appealed to members of the house to consider well before they took any precipitate action.

Denial was made by Gibbons that he and Governor Walton had planned to issue a call for a meeting of the house.

Armed guardsmen still stood before the doors of the house and state chambers at the capitol last night, despite word of non-interference.

The federal district court will be appealed to in the event that Gov- ernor Walton attempts to disperse the session, it was stated by McBea. Plans for bringing an action in the state supreme court were abandoned, the legislators taking the stand that the legislature is superior to the highest court of the state.

Martial Law Is Being Applied
Strictly in Sofia—Communications Halted

Vienna, Sept. 21.—While reports of a revolution in Bulgaria are untrue, says the Sofia Correspondent of the Tagessblatt, there really was a plot to overthrow the government and to proclaim a Soviet republic. However the government heard of the movement and stopped it. In two days, 2,000 have been arrested and sent to join the Samolistic men in the Soviet jail.

Among this number were ten Russian. The subversive plot was to have been sprung Thursday. Meanwhile the Macedonia regular bands were to have started operation on the Yugoslav frontier but apparently there was no connections between them and the Communists.

Apparent calm reigns in Bulgaria says the correspondent. Martial law is being strictly applied in Sofia and no communication by telephone allowed.

SAY RADICALS MISLEAD MANY ABOUT RATES

High Freight Rates Not Seat of Farmers Troubles, Says
Dillon

Fort Dodge, Ia., Sept. 21.—Radical politicians have lead farmers to believe freight rates are the chief cause of their trouble declared Chas. Dillon, assistant to the chairman of the Western railway committee on public relations in an address prepared for delivery today before the Fort Dodge chamber of commerce. "Politicians," he asserted, "are misleading farmers in certain sections to support forces and legislative measures are certain, if successful, to do them and the country untold harm to cure temporary conditions."

Leading farmers organizations are opposed to government ownership of railways," Mr. Dillon said. "They have some experience during the war. O. E. Bradfote, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation says they demand transportation that will move the products of the farm when they should be moved. Pres. Bradfote is absolutely right."

G. B. TELLS OF BENEFITS OF REAL PEACE

France Will Allow Mine Workers of Ruhr to Return But Not Officials

MUST STAND TRIAL

German Government Is Reported to Offer French an Early Cash Payment

London, Sept. 21.—Report of impending collapse of passive resistance in the Ruhr continued to be given much prominence in the London Press. The importance of such a turn in the situation as it would affect France-English co-operation is emphasized, although widely different opinions are printed as to exact clarity at the immediate results will produce.

Referring to Germany's reported regulars to cease passive resistance if expelled civilians are allowed to return, the political writer of the Daily Telegraph recalls that the French have stated that while they are willing to allow the return of mine employees they will not consent to amnesty for the officials who organized the resistance and sabotage and will only allow them to return with their consent to appear before a French court martial.

Semiofficial Report.

London, Sept. 21.—A Central News Dispatch says a lengthy semiofficial announcement was made public in Berlin stating that Germany is ready to negotiate on reparations, but conditionally on the charge of all persons imprisoned by the French and the return of those banished from the occupied areas.

The wording of the statement is vague, says the correspondent, but it is generally interpreted for ending of the passive resistance.

Must Restore Ruhr.

Berlin, Sept. 21.—A semi-official statement referring to reports current in Paris of possible Franco-German negotiations makes it quite clear that no practical results can be obtained without the restoration of normal economic activity in the Ruhr, with amnesty and permission to those expelled to return, and that the administration must be placed in the hands of German officials and freedom of traffic between occupied and unoccupied Germany restored.

The statement declares that such conditions would permit reparations payments, commencing with the evacuation of the Ruhr but that Germany can never agree to recognize in any form the legality of the occupation of the Ruhr.

That Belgium is attempting to mediate in the Ruhr conflict is admitted at the foreign office, where it is stated, the Belgian minister has been a frequent caller of late and has candidly discussed the situation with Chancellor Stresemann in what is considered to be some thing more than a merely informal manner.

The German government also is reported as being prepared to offer France an early, if not immediate, cash payment in the event of its plan of hypothecating German private properties is accepted as a basis for new reparations.

RELIGIOUS FRATERNITY HOLDS MEET

Brotherhood of St. Andrew
Holds Meeting at Chicago
University

40th ANNIVERSARY

Five Day Conference for Junior Members Also Will Be Held

Chicago, Sept. 20—Religious statesmen and educators from all parts of North America, as well as the foreign missionary field, have gathered here for the program of the International Convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, which will be held at the University of Chicago, September 19 to 23.

The celebration at St. James Church of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the first chapter of this world-wide religious fraternity will be a feature of the convention. A five-day conference for boys enrolled in the junior department of the brotherhood also will be held.

The brotherhood was founded in 1883 by James L. Houghteling, a Bible class teacher, and subsequently became national and, later, international in scope. It includes organizations in the United States, England, Scotland, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and the West Indies. The convention is expected to bring together the largest group of men and boys ever seen in the history of the Episcopal church for a like purpose.

Consecration of manhood in service is to be the theme of the convention. Dr. H. B. Bonnell, of Philadelphia, president of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew in the United States; Dr. Nathaniel Butler, of the University of Chicago; the Rev. Sheldon M. Griswold, bishop suffragan of Chicago; the Rev. Franklin S. Johnson, of Philadelphia, and the Very Rev. J. P. D. Lloyd, of Halifax, will make opening addresses.

Following a business session Friday morning a joint meeting of the Men's and Boys' conferences will take place and will be continued in the afternoon with an address on "The New Challenge of the Junior Brotherhood to the Men of the Church," by G. Frank Shelby, of Philadelphia, general secretary of the national brotherhood.

How to introduce family prayer into the home will be the theme of the Saturday program which will be introduced by Warren Hires Turner, of Philadelphia, national treasurer of the brotherhood, and will continue in what has been described as the most impressive general conference of the convention. It will have for its topic "How to Secure the Best Young Men for Officers in the Church Army."

At a unique service Saturday afternoon at Houghteling Memorial chapel, erected on the site of the room where the first chapter of the brotherhood was founded, speakers will include Dr. John W. Wood, executive secretary of the foreign work of the department of missions; George Anthony King, president of the Brotherhood in England, and the Rev. Floyd W. Tompkins, rector of Holy Trinity Church, Philadelphia.

Three noted figures in the work of the Episcopal Church will speak at the concluding conference of the convention Sunday afternoon, at which time the topic will be "Christian Citizenship." Leaders will be the Rev. L. Ralph Sherman, of Toronto; Herbert S. Houston, of New York; and the Rev. Thomas F. Gailer, president of the National Bishop and Council.

ASTRONOMERS ARE LOOKING FOR COMETS

D'Arrest and Di Vico Comets
Are About Due For Re-appearance

COURSES UNCERTAIN

Comets Have Been Seen at Irregular Intervals for Many Years

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 20.—Astronomers are on the watch for two comets, both discovered many decades ago, which speeding over their rather uncertain courses through the skies, are about due for reappearance.

One of these interesting visitors is Di Vico's "long period" comet of 1848, popularly known as the Mexican War comet because just on the outbreak of that conflict, it was observed by Professor W. C. Bond, of the Harvard Observatory, on Feb. 30, 1848. Professor F. Di Vico, of Rome, also found the comet independently with his telescope two days later, and because he officially recorded its coming, his fellow astronomers have given it his name.

Professor Di Vico observed his comet's godson for two months, when it passed from view. It was re-observed by the comet independently with his telescope two days later, and because he officially recorded its coming, his fellow astronomers have given it his name.

It passed from view. It was re-observed by the comet independently with his telescope two days later, and because he officially recorded its coming, his fellow astronomers have given it his name.

and Jupiter, and the scientists of the ages decided that it might appear to them any time between 1821 and 1925. When it does come, it will not be visible to "the man in the street," Harvard College Observatory officials say. Comets, they explain, may at any time be thrown completely out of their accustomed course by getting too near the sun or a planet, these bodies acting so as to give the stranger a sort of "kick" to one side or the other.

The second comet that astronomers are on the lookout for this year is that discovered by and named for D'Arrest, who saw it from Leipzig June 27, 1821. It returned in 1851, 1870, 1877, 1890, 1897 and 1910. It was due in 1917 but the telescope failed to find it. Astronomical calculations showed that it might be seen, "by telescope only," on twenty-five or thirty dates of 1923 but the astronomers of the world who report their discoveries to the Harvard Observatory as a clearing house of information, have not picked it up as yet. Its schedule calls for visibility in various parts of the heavens with the aid of high-powered lenses on September 3, 8, 13, 18, 23 and 28 and October 3, 8, 13 and 18.

The Harvard Observatory does not specialize on investigating comets partly because its location does not lead itself to such observations as well as do those of other astronomical stations in the United States and Europe. In this country, the observatories which may be said to make comets a specialty are Lick Observatory of the University of California, Yerkes at Williams Bay, Wisconsin, and the naval observatory at Washington.

Overland Sells Strong After 50 Years of Service
Tireless for endurance are not always awarded to the young. In fact, an Overland Roadster, model 30, serial number 2675, built in 1908, successfully climbing Pike's Peak without a groan of protest and arriving at the top purring like a peaceful kitten.
This remarkable car is owned by A. H. Brewer of Wichita, Kansas, who recently completed a trip from his home town to Denver, Colorado, and then immediately set about to view the glories of the State from the summit of Pike's Peak, that famous mecca of tourists.
The Overland hit the circling grades with wonderful ease and did the long, laborious eighteen mile pull without a whimper; the only trouble encountered being a punctured tire at the seventh mile post. This Overland is still using the same carburetor that was put on it when it left the factory fifteen years ago, though the original speedometer retired from active service seven years back after registering 62,000 miles.

TELLS HOW TO PROTECT GARDENS

Information Relative to Protecting Gardens From Frost Given

AIR JACKET FORMED

Helps to Keep Plants for Weeks After Killing Frost Has Come

Readville, Mass., Sept. 20.—Put a damp, warm air jacket on your garden plants if you want to protect them from frost this autumn. That is the advice of Alexander McAdie, director of the Blue Hill Observatory, who speaks as one with authority on the subject because of his success in aiding orange growers in California to keep their crops from freezing.

"Your grandmother probably loved flowers and took good care of them," said Director McAdie, who also is professor of meteorology at Harvard. "She had the right idea, when the crisp early fall nights came around, of protecting the flowers from frost by wrapping newspapers around them carefully, pinning the paper so that there would be no gaps and wide-open places. In this way her plants would keep their blossoms until October."

"But grandma did not know it all; we think we know a little more than the old lady did. We now wrap the newspaper around the plant just as before, but after pinning it tightly we twist another sheet of paper into something like a rope about an inch thick and pin it in place. We then take a third sheet and wrap it around just as was done the first sheet. We now have an air space about an inch thick between the two wrappings and this air jacket prevents loss of heat. It is an excellent heat insulator. We have practically bottled up the inside hot air around the plant, and if this is done about three o'clock in the afternoon it is almost as effective as keeping a small stove near the plant. Also we should sprinkle the plant and the ground with water, sprinkle it well before we wrap the papers around it."

"With most flowers and small fruits the temperature has to fall four or five degrees below the freezing point and remain there for several hours before damage is done. Plants can be cooled to a point below freezing and yet if gradually warmed up, not injured."

"So water the plants freely, cover them tightly, put an air jacket on them and after uncovering the next morning sprinkle again with water that is rather cold. Don't use hot water. And shade the plants from the sun for several hours."

"Of course for garden truck, larger gardens and orchards, where the protection of the crop is a commercial problem, it is more practical to cover with light weight cloth or use orchard heaters, oil pots, etc. Besides heating, the smoke serves as a screen or cover."

Would Have a Stricter Exam

Washington, Sept. 20.—Broadening of the scope of medical examinations which aliens must undergo on entering United States was recommended by Assistant Secretary Wadsworth of the treasury in a report to Secretary Mellon. The assistant secretary, who has charge of the public health service, urged the application of the intensive examination to every incoming immigrant rather than to those who patently require such a physical survey.

He also suggested that steamship companies be penalized for transporting to this country persons clearly barred by statutes.

U. S. FILMS ARE USED IN GERMANY

Harold Lloyd Is Favorite of German Fans; Represents America to Them

CHAPLIN FORGOTTEN

Comic Nights Are Advertised in Germany when American Comedies are Shown

Munich, Sept. 21.—Horn-rimmed spectacles are now regarded by Europeans as the infallible label of Americanism. Harold Lloyd has displaced Charlie Chaplin in their favor. They have even, for the moment, forgotten bawdy Douglas Fairbanks, Tom Mix and the other professional wild-westerns, and accept the bespectacled Harold as the typical American. And as it is difficult to reconcile the tortoise-shell blinkers with cow-camps and Indians, Europeans are getting somewhat muddled in their conceptions of American life.

For years cowboys and benders with egg-top hats and padded shoulders represented American manhood to Europe. The British comic papers and the British stage gave Europe its pictures of life in the United States. Then the movies came to the fore, and Europe insisted on having films which would violate its notions on how Americans look and act. Films of conventional life in the United States apparently do not appeal to European crowds. At any rate they are never shown.

The ordinary European film is so slow in its action that the movie houses rely very largely on American films for their "pep" and comedy. Europe produces tragedies without end. Italy, Spain, France and Germany stage sorrow and grief. Sweden also supplies many tear-wringers, and Russia is beginning to send soulful films into the houses of western Europe. So it remains for the Americans to supply something cheerful and lively.

Europe has starved and feasted and suffered so long that it wants a change. European comedians have tried to make their fellow-countrymen laugh, but they have failed so far in their efforts to produce first class comedy films. Even the third-rate American comedies are more successful in Europe than the films in which the leading comedians of Europe have been featured.

Comic nights are frequently advertised in German film theatres, when only the comic films of certain American favorites are known. German producers, German actors and many of the German critics denounce American comic films as foolish and inartistic, but the public crowds the theatres when they are shown and pays its hard-earned marks for a chance to laugh.

DEMAND FOR EXTRA SESSION NOT APPROVED

Middlewest Farmers Do Not
Join Those of Northwest
In Their Demands on
President

SEEKING OTHER WAYS
Farming Is Undergoing Many
Changes in Midwest as
New Methods Are
Adopted

Indianapolis, Indiana, Sept. 21.—There is no demand among farmers in this state for an extra session of Congress to fix the price of any agricultural product. There is little discussion among either politicians or farmers of the conference held in the Northwest which resulted in resolutions being adopted urging an extra session.

Farmers in Indiana have no faith in legislative remedies. Apparently they believe that conditions will right themselves. It is a marked change from the sentiment in the Northwest.

There is dissatisfaction and some distress among the farmers. There have been many foreclosures. Few banks have closed, because they are generally supervised and are strictly supervised. The banks, too, usually are backed by men of wealth in a community and many are willing to sacrifice large amounts of money to avoid the stigma of having been an officer or director in a closed bank.

The chief reason apparently that farmers do not feel the disturbed price conditions as keenly as do many farmers in the Northwest is because of the diversity of crops. From his cows, poultry and garden a farmer gets more of his living. He profits chiefly through cattle and hogs. There has been a remarkable increase in dairying in the last few years, and it bids fair to continue to increase.

Not Ready Money Crop
Wheat has passed from an important "ready money crop" a few years ago until now it is planted usually only in the order of crop rotation followed. The wheat yield has not been good this year. There is a noticeable tendency even to abandon wheat entirely and to plant soy beans as a crop to enrich the soil and at the same time fill the place of wheat in the order of crop rotation. Even in so well settled a state as this—and the same is said to be true of Illinois and Ohio—farming is undergoing the same rapid changes that have characterized industry in the last decade. If one method is not successful there is an effort made to adjust the process of farming to meet the situation and to take advantage of new demands for farm products.

Hog raising always has been an important industry in this state. The prejudice against milking cows

HAY FEVER
If you can't "get away" ease the attacks with—
VICKS VAPORUB
Over 17 Million Jars Used Yearly

has been strong until the last few years. There is a demand for dairy products and the profit found in dairying has brought about a new situation. There is one farmer in one county who now has 181 milk cows on his farm, employing several people to aid him and selling milk only to creameries and milk stations. Another farmer, who has many milk cows had difficulty in keeping labor on the farm until he decided to install electric fans to keep the cows cool—he discovered that the fans also kept the milkers cool and his labor problem disappeared.

Farmer Is Envious
There is little prejudice as between town and city. Indeed, in the smaller cities the farmer usually is envious. For while city people are paying good prices for produce of various sorts the farmer is—feeling—getting his living rather cheaply out of the soil. Improved roads, extension of electric lights and the automobile have combined to knit the city and country people closer together. Many people agree that under present conditions the farmer is at a disadvantage as regards prices, although occasionally one will hear a city resident declare that the farmer is better off than anyone else and that he, too, profited during the war.

Cooperative marketing has made little headway and apparently there is little demand for it. Most farmers seem satisfied with the present system.

Some farmers are in difficult circumstances because of purchase of land at high prices during the war or heavy purchases of bloated livestock at big prices. Governor Warren T. McCray, who had been rated the richest farmer of the state and who owned one of the finest herds of Herford cattle in the world, has been forced to ask aid of his creditors because, his friends say, he loaded up with high priced cattle during the war and after-the-war period or sold bloated cattle at tremendous prices on credit and is unable to realize.

Bankers agree that money among farmers is rather tight, but all believe that the situation is rapidly becoming better.

PUNCH BOARDS UNLAWFUL IN NORTH DAKOTA

Attorney General Starts Warfare on Gambling Devices
of All Kinds

QUOTES THE LAW

That severe steps will be taken to clear the state of punch boards, slot machines and other gambling devices is expressed in two letters prepared by the office of the Attorney General. One letter is to be sent to proprietors of all pool halls, soft drink parlors or tobacco stores and the other is to be sent to all sheriffs, states attorneys and sheriffs in the state.

In the letter addressed to pool halls, soft drink parlors and candy and tobacco stores, the law is cited with reference to slot machines and punch boards and the penalty which may be evoked upon offenders is given. According to the letter, "punch boards and slot machines are gambling devices, even if operated so that the player, in any event, will receive something, if he stands to win something in addition. 27 C. J. 989."

"All sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables, police and peace officers are hereby authorized to visit and inspect all places mentioned in this Act or licensed under this Chapter and it shall be their duty to enforce all the provisions of this Chapter and the Laws of this State in such places."

"This department can best ascertain the presence of these devices through your cooperation."

"Punch boards and slot machines, are prohibited, and their keeping or exhibiting is a misdemeanor, even though they are operated so that the player, in any event will receive something, if he stands to win something in addition. 27 C. J. 989."

"Will you kindly inspect pool halls, soft drink, candy and tobacco stores within your jurisdiction, and take the necessary legal steps to remove such gambling devices and to prosecute those who will not obey the law? This office will cooperate with you to see that the law is strictly obeyed."

"We are being informed that punch boards, slot machines and other devices for games of chance, are being introduced into the State, especially into pool halls and places where candy or tobacco are sold.

"We wish to call your attention to the laws against gambling and the keeping of gambling devices, tables apparatus etc., and also to the 1923 amendment to the State Licensing Law, reading in part as follows: "All sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables, police and peace officers are hereby authorized to visit and inspect all places mentioned in this Act or licensed under this Chapter and it shall be their duty to enforce all the provisions of this Chapter and the Laws of this State in such places."

LEGISLATE TO LESSEN AUTO ACCIDENTS

North Carolina Passes Safety
First Laws; Hope to Lessen Deaths

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 21.—"Safety first" exponents, as reflected among those who want to see the high rate of railroad grade crossing accidents lowered, carried their fight into at least four southern legislatures this summer, with success in only one.

In the North Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama general assemblies measures were introduced which would require the motorist to come to a complete stop within a specified distance of a grade crossing and at the same time require the railroad to erect suitable warning signals. North Carolina, alone of the three, enacted such legislation and officials charged with its administration say that the first few months of its operation showed an appreciable lessening in the number of accidents. The Florida, Georgia and Alabama lawmaking bodies refused to adopt the measures, their opponents characterizing them as the handiwork of railroad men seeking to free their interests from possible damage suits. In the Florida assembly the measure was amended to meet these objections, a clause being inserted which would have expressly provided that it was not to be construed as removing the liability of the carriers.

DEMAND FOR EXTRA SESSION NOT APPROVED

Middlewest Farmers Do Not
Join Those of Northwest
In Their Demands on
President

SEEKING OTHER WAYS

Farming Is Undergoing Many
Changes in Midwest as
New Methods Are
Adopted

Indianapolis, Indiana, Sept. 21.—There is no demand among farmers in this state for an extra session of Congress to fix the price of any agricultural product. There is little discussion among either politicians or farmers of the conferences held in the Northwest which resulted in resolutions being adopted urging an extra session.

Farmers in Indiana have no faith in legislative remedies. Apparently they believe that conditions will right themselves. It is a marked change from the sentiment in the Northwest.

There is dissatisfaction and some distress among the farmers. There have been many foreclosures. Few banks have closed, because they have generally been conservative and are strictly supervised. The banks, too, usually are backed by men of wealth in a community and many are willing to sacrifice large amounts of money to avoid the stigma of having been an officer or director in a closed bank.

The chief reason apparently that farmers do not feel the disturbed price conditions as keenly as do many farmers in the Northwest is because of the diversity of crops. From his cows, poultry and garden a farmer gets most of his living. He profits chiefly through cattle and hogs. There has been a remarkable increase in dairying in the last few years, and it bids fair to continue to increase.

Not Ready Money Crop

Wheat has passed from an important "ready money crop" a few years ago until now it is planted usually only in the order of crop rotation followed. The wheat yield has not been good this year. There is a noticeable tendency even to abandon wheat entirely and to plant soy beans as a crop to enrich the soil and at the same time fill the place of wheat in the order of crop rotation. Even in so well settled a state as this—and the same is said to be true of Illinois and Ohio—farming is undergoing the same rapid changes that have characterized industry in the last decade. If one method is not successful there is an effort made to adjust the process of farming to meet the situation and to take advantage of new demands for farm products.

Hog raising always has been an important industry in this state. The prejudice against milking cows has been strong until the last few years, when a demand for dairy products and the profit found in dairying has brought about a new situation. There is one farmer in one county who now has 181 milk cows on his farm, employing several people to aid him and selling milk only to creameries and milk stations. Another farmer who has many milk cows had difficulty in keeping labor on the farm until he decided to install electric fans to keep the cows cool—he discovered that the fans also kept the milkers cool and his labor problem disappeared.

Farmer Is Envious

There is little prejudice as between town and city. Indeed, in the smaller cities the farmer usually is envied. For while city people are paying good prices for produce of various sorts the farmer is—they feel—getting his living rather cheaply out of the soil. Improved roads, extension of electric lights and the automobile have combined to knit the city and country people closer together. Many people agree that under present conditions the farmer is at a disadvantage as regards prices, although occasionally one will hear a city resident declare that the farmer is better off than anyone else and that he, too, profited during the war.

Cooperative marketing has made little headway and apparently there is little demand for it. Most farmers seem satisfied with the present system.

Some farmers are in difficult circumstances because of purchase of land at high prices during the war or heavy purchases of bloated livestock at big prices. Governor Warren T. McCray, who had been rated the richest farmer of the state and who owned one of the finest herds of Herford cattle in the world, has been forced to ask aid of his creditors because, his friends say, he loaded up with high priced cattle during the war and after-the-war period or sold bloated cattle at tremendous prices on credit and is unable to realize.

Bankers agree that money among farmers is rather tight, but all believe that the situation is rapidly becoming better.

PUNCH BOARDS UNLAWFUL IN NORTH DAKOTA

Attorney General Starts Warfare on Gambling Devices
of All Kinds

QUOTES THE LAW

That severe steps will be taken to clear the state of punch boards, slot machines and other gambling devices is expressed in two letters prepared by the office of the Attorney General. One letter is to be sent to proprietors of all pool halls, soft drink parlors or tobacco stores and the other is to be sent to all sheriffs, states attorneys and sheriffs in the state.

In the letter addressed to pool halls, soft drink parlors and candy and tobacco stores the law is cited with reference to slot machines and punch boards and the penalty which may be evoked upon offenders is given. According to the letter, "punch boards and slot machines are gambling devices, even if operated so that the player, in any event, will receive something, if he stands to win something in addition." Violations of this law are punishable as a crime, and may also constitute grounds for revoking the state license under which all such places operate, according to the letter.

The letter to the sheriffs, states attorneys and police chiefs follows: "We are being informed that punch boards, slot machines and other devices for games of chance, are being introduced into the state, especially into pool halls and places where candy or tobacco are sold.

"We wish to call your attention to the laws against gambling and the keeping of gambling devices, tables apparatus etc., and also to the 1923 amendment to the State Licensing Law, reading in part as follows:

"All sheriffs, deputy sheriffs, constables, police and peace officers are hereby authorized to visit and inspect all places mentioned in this Act or licensed under this Chapter and it shall be their duty to enforce all the provisions of this Chapter and the Laws of this State in such places."

"This department can best ascertain the presence of these devices through your cooperation.

"Punch boards and slot machines, are prohibited, and their keeping or exhibiting is a misdemeanor, even though they are operated so that the player, in any event will receive something, if he stands to win something in addition. 27 C. J. 989."

"Will you kindly inspect pool halls, soft drink, candy and tobacco stores within your jurisdiction, and take the necessary legal steps to remove such gambling devices and to prosecute those who will not obey the law? This office will cooperate with you to see that the law is strictly obeyed."

LEGISLATE TO LESSEN AUTO ACCIDENTS

North Carolina Passes Safety
First Laws; Hope to Lessen Deaths

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 21.—"Safety first" exponents, as reflected among those who want to see the high rate of railroad grade crossing accidents lowered, carried their fight into at least four southern legislatures this summer, with success in only one.

In the North Carolina, Georgia, Florida and Alabama general assemblies measures were introduced which would require the motorist to come to a complete stop within a specified distance of a grade crossing and at the same time require the railroad to erect suitable warning signals. North Carolina, alone of the three, enacted such legislation and officials charged with its administration say that the first few months of its operation showed an appreciable lessening in the number of accidents. The Florida, Georgia and Alabama lawmaking bodies refused to adopt the measures, their opponents characterizing them as the handiwork of railroad men seeking to free their interests from possible damage suits. In the Florida assembly the measure was amended to meet these objections, a clause being inserted which would have expressly provided that it was not to be construed as removing the liability of the carriers.

TELLS HOW TO PROTECT GARDENS

Information Relative to Protecting Gardens From Frost Given

AIR JACKET FORMED

Helps to Keep Plants for Weeks After Killing Frost Has Come

Readville, Mass., Sept. 20.—Put a damp, warm air jacket on your garden plants if you want to protect them from frost this autumn. That is the advice of Alexander McAdie, director of the Blue Hill Observatory, who speaks as one with authority on the subject because of his success in aiding orange growers in California to keep their crops from freezing.

Your grandmother probably loved flowers and took good care of them," said Director McAdie, who also is professor of meteorology at Harvard. "She had the right idea, when the crisp early fall nights came around, of protecting the flowers from frost by wrapping newspapers around them carefully, pinning the paper so that there would be no gaps and wide-open places. In this way her plants would keep their blossoms until October.

"But grandma did not know it all; we think we know a little more than the old lady did. We now wrap the newspaper around the plant just as before, but after pinning it tightly we twist another sheet of paper in an inch thick and pin it in place. We then take a third sheet and wrap it around just as was done the first sheet. We now have an air space about an inch thick between the two wrappings and this air jacket prevents loss of heat. It is an excellent heat insulator. We have practically bottled up the inside hot air around the plant, and if this is done about three o'clock in the afternoon it is almost as effective as keeping a small stove near the plant. Also we should sprinkle the plant and the ground with water, sprinkle it well, before we wrap the papers around it.

"With most flowers and small fruits the temperature has to fall four or five degrees below the freezing point and remain there for several hours before damage is done. Plants can be cooled to a point below freezing and yet if gradually warmed up, not injured.

"So water the plants freely, cover them tightly, put an air jacket on them and after uncovering the next morning sprinkle the plants with water that is rather cold. Don't use hot water. And shade the plants from the sun for several hours.

"Of course for garden truck, larger gardens and orchards, where the protection of the crop is a commercial problem, it is more practical to cover with light weight cloth or use orchard heaters, oil pots, etc. Besides heating, the smoke serves as a screen or cover."

Would Have a Stricter Exam

Washington, Sept. 20.—Broadening of the scope of medical examinations which aliens must undergo on entering the United States was recommended by Assistant Secretary Wadsworth of the treasury in a report to Secretary Mellon. The assistant secretary, who has charge of the public health service, urged the application of the intensive examination to every incoming immigrant rather than to those who patently require such a physical survey.

He also suggested that steamship companies be penalized for transporting to this country persons clearly barred by statutes.

U. S. FILMS ARE USED IN GERMANY

Harold Lloyd Is Favorite of German Fans; Represents America to Them

CHAPLIN FORGOTTEN

Comic Nights Are Advertised in Germany when American Comedies are Shown

Munich, Sept. 21.—Born-rimmed spectacles are now regarded by Europeans as the infallible label of Americanism. Harold Lloyd has displaced Charlie Chaplin in their favor. They have even, for the moment, forgotten bawling Douglas Fairbanks, Tom Mix and the other professional wild-westerners, and accept the bespectacled Harold as the typical American. And as it is difficult to reconcile the tortoise-shell blinkers with cow-camps and Indians, Europeans are getting somewhat muddled in their conceptions of American life.

For years cowboys and bouncers with egg-toed shoes and padded shoulders represented American nationality to Europe. The British comic papers and the British stage gave Europe its pictures of life in the United States. Then the movies came to the fore, and Europe insisted on having films which would violate its notions on how Americans look and act. Films of conventional life in the United States apparently do not appeal to European crowds. At any rate they are never shown.

The ordinary European film is so slow in its action that the movie houses rely very largely on American films for their "comedy" and "comedy." Europe produces tragedies without end. Italy, Spain, France and Germany stage sorrow and grief. Sweden also supplies many tear-wringers, and Russia is beginning to send soulful films into the houses of western Europe. So it remains for the Americans to supply something useful and lively.

Europe has starved and fought and suffered so long that it wants a change. European comedians have tried to make their fellow-countrymen laugh, but they have failed so far in their efforts to produce first class comedy films. Even the third-rate American comedies are more successful in Europe than the films in which the leading comedians of Europe have been featured.

Comic nights are frequently advertised in German film theatres, when only the comic films of certain American favorites are shown. German producers, German actors and many of the German critics denounce American comic films as foolish and inartistic, but the public crowds the theatres when they are shown and pays its hard-earned marks for a chance to laugh.

THOUGHTS ON THE CONSTITUTION

Yet, after all deductions, it ranks above every other written constitution for the intrinsic excellence of its scheme, its adaptation to the circumstances of the people, the simplicity, brevity, and precision of its language, its judicious mixture of definiteness in principle and elasticity in details.

—James Bryce.

YOUR JOB

Colie Chandler is an engineer on the Illinois Central. He drives locomotive No. 1167. When he comes in from a run, Colie always lingers around the shops until No. 1167 is inspected and groomed for her next trip.

When repairs are needed, Colie can't be driven out of the Cairo shop with a shotgun. The story goes that he hangs around, watching the shopmen as anxiously as a mother hen with her chicks. When repairs involve an overnight job, Colie sleeps in the roundhouse within call.

All this isn't surprising, if you know anything about the average locomotive engineer and his loyalty to his job.

Colie Chandler starts us thinking about the generally accepted notion that the average person works reluctantly and quits with a shout when the whistle blows.

Sometimes we all act that way. But the trouble is with our nerves rather than a desire to put miles between ourselves and our jobs.

For instance, a real dyed-in-the-wool newspaperman never reads the papers as eagerly as when he is on cavation. As if he were afraid that he might miss being in on a big job of reporting.

Work is like an old horse or an auto that has nearly served its day. The driver gets irritable at times and cusses and fumes. But just let an outsider start criticizing, and you quickly learn what the owner really thinks of his steed. The owner of the most shot-to-pieces flivver is ever eager to boast about what it can still do.

So with our jobs, draft them. We hate and love them in the same breath. Ask the man returned from vacation.

AWFUL NOISE

The Chinese, before the white man began selling rifles to them, used to amuse us by wearing false faces and making frightful racket, especially with brass gongs, to scare their enemies in battle.

But maybe the Chinese knew what they were doing, after all. Professor A. M. Law, English scientist, predicts that noises will play an important part in future warfare.

"Noise," says Law, "has a very curious effect on human beings. The more civilized they become, the more noise affects them. Lots of people in the last war were sent into a serious condition by the nerve-racking effect of noise. I can imagine the aggressive use of selected noises to undermine the morale of population and the development of all sorts of anti-noise devices."

Were you ever in a keyed-up nervous condition where even slight noises made you jump? The rasp of a file, the squeak of new shoes, the monotonous drumming of fingers or shrill whistling by a boy—these are described by nervous people as "enough to drive one crazy."

Noise, even in a condition of healthy nerves, is shocking to the nervous system. It's a marvel that people in civilization are as sane as they are, considering the thousands of blows or shocks that reach their nerves daily in the form of noises.

Later, as cities become larger and noisier, there'll be campaigns against the more annoying sounds, just as there's now a "silence zone" near every hospital.

Fortunately, nature is quick to protect us. The miller gets so he ignores or doesn't hear the rumble of his mill-wheels. So, too, we get so the fearful din of civilization passes in one ear and out the other without our noticing it. This is because the power of receiving a sensation becomes more or less paralyzed by repetition.

REASONABLE THEORY

John Brubacher came to America from Switzerland in the year 1710. The other day 1500 of his descendants held a reunion to honor his memory. If all the people of 1710 had that many descendants the earth's population would be 1500 times as many as it was 213 years ago.

Old-time economists had a theory that if nature didn't kill so many of us by wars, famine, pestilence and the like, population would multiply beyond the earth's ability to support it. The World War and such catastrophes as the recent earthquake in Japan seem to be part of the workings of this theory.

FURNISHES CONVERSATION

The champion home brewer is discovered in Haverhill, Mass., and gets 30 days in the workhouse. His wife testifies in court that he drinks 12 quarts of "red wine" every day.

There is no particular editorial moral in this, which seems to be characteristic of the most interesting things of life. However, a man who can drink 12 quarts of wine a day does a public service in the way of furnishing material for conversation to enliven dull evenings. So we pass the news along.

TALK WITHOUT THOUGHT

An English girl, daughter of the Earl of Birkenhead, visited America. She says she was most impressed by our "love of talk." She got the impression from the many speech-makers she heard and the patience with which audiences listened to them.

Rodger Dolan, who is having liver trouble lately, says this patience is because so few speeches contain ideas, being mostly talk, talk, talk—repetitions of old stuff. A thought seems painful, both for broadcasters and receivers.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

CALL MODIFIED.

A modification to the call for the state convention, making it optional on the counties whether they will elect new delegates appears on the front page of this issue.

The Emmons County Executive committee has not yet decided, not having had an opportunity to get together. A consensus seems to favor sending the old delegates, however, and it is unlikely that the committee after taking the matter up, will call for special precinct meetings and for a county meeting to elect new delegates.

The majority of the farmers are busy and will be so until snow flies, and they are, practically unanimously, satisfied with the delegates who were elected to the Fargo convention. If members throughout the county desire special precinct meetings and will take the initiative at once the county executive committee will no doubt issue the call for precinct meetings and a county convention. Otherwise, according to the individual opinion of two of the members of the committee, the old delegates, Roy A. Yeater, S. F. Wright and Geo. W. Lynn will be given credentials to attend the state convention as delegates from Emmons—Emmons County Free Press.

WHAT IS AGED?

The attention of the Evening Tribune has been called by a sprightly young person of 63 to a deplorable tendency of the press to misuse the word "aged." A headline proclaims that an aged woman has been hurt in an accident. The story gives her age at 43.

It is a delicate matter to decide at what point a man becomes aged. To make the same calculation with regard to a woman requires even more wisdom and tact.

Practically all the men and women, who do big things and preside over great concerns are well past the mark set by the headline writer. A modern grandmother dresses with more "dash" than her foppier granddaughter. White hair falls daily under the shears of the bob artist. ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"I WILL tell you why there is a rabbit on the moon," said Umpeeth, the Indian medicine man, after he had taken a long pull at his pipe. Nancy and Nick sat as quietly as they knew how, waiting for the story. They had seen the rabbit through Umpeeth's magic glass.

"It was this way," went on Umpeeth. "Once upon a time a mighty hunter came to the place where the plains and mountains meet. He had many arrows and well he deserved the name of mighty for what he saw he killed, and he saw much, for his eye was swifter than lightning."

"But winter came quickly that year. It was down the mountain passes and out onto the plains like a white fury while the cottonwood trees were still in leaf and before the wood berries had withered."

"Mister Mighty Hunter had lost his way; he was hungry and almost frozen and it was night!"

"At last he found a cave, and having flint stone and a few dry twigs he made a tiny fire. Then he dug under the snow and found some pine branches and made a greater fire."

"Then he lay down to sleep. It was warm in the cave now. 'By and by something soft rubbed against his cheek.'

"Mister Mighty Hunter sat up. 'Ah!' he said. 'Here is food of the best kind!' It was a pure white rabbit!"

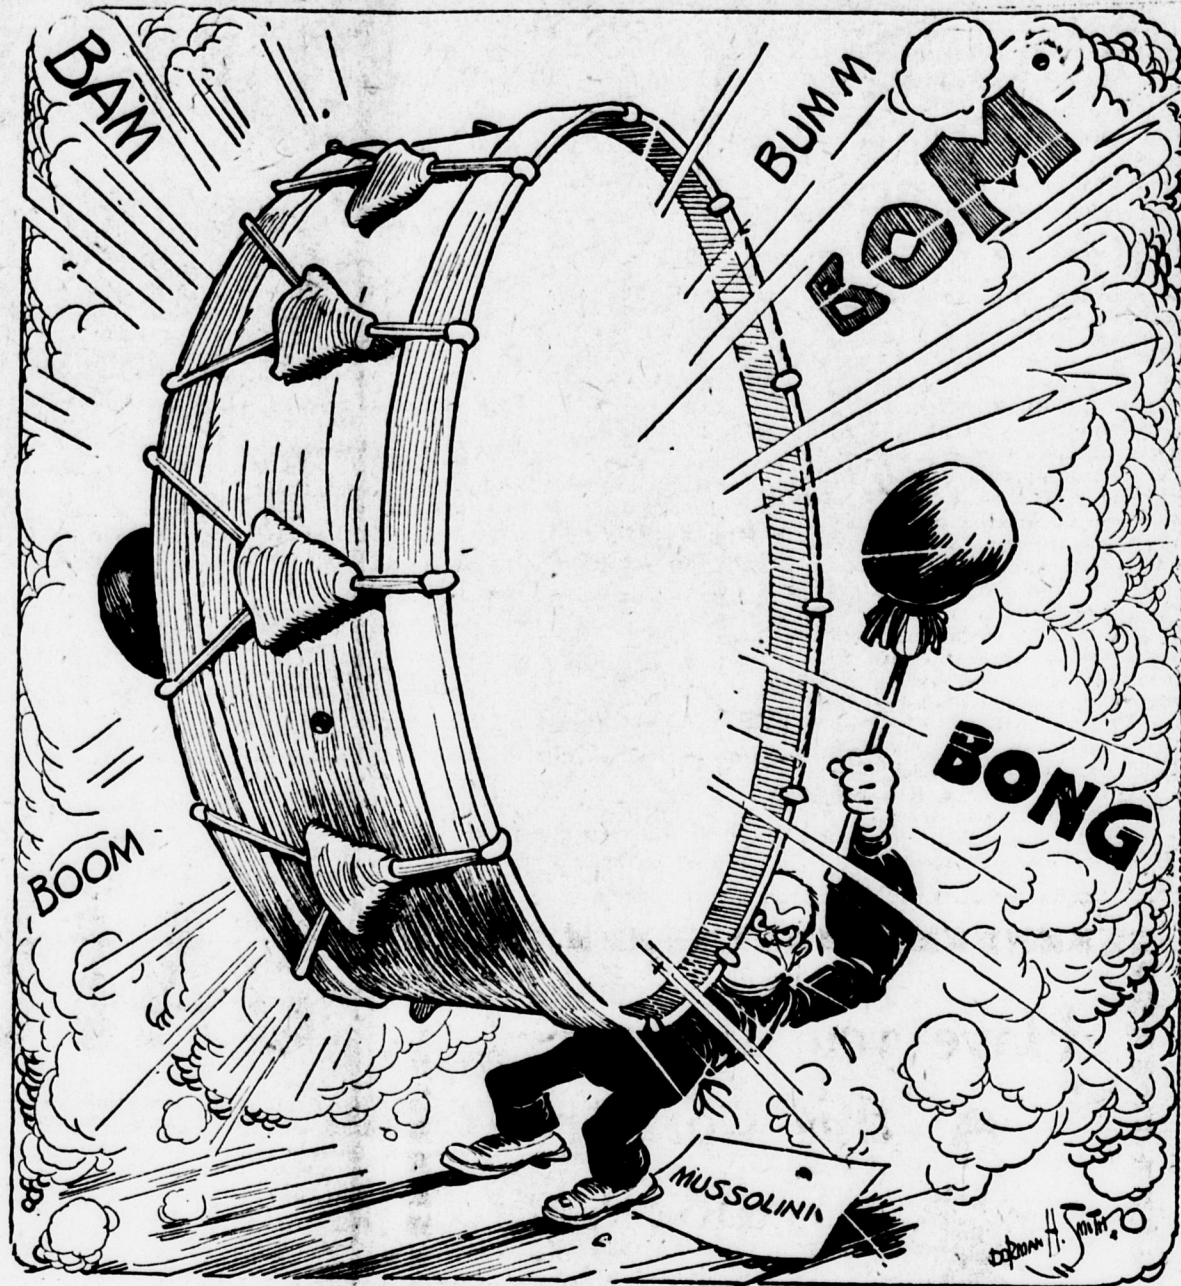

"Then he stopped. 'No, no, I can't eat such a helpless creature. Lie down, little rabbit, and keep warm as long as you like. No harm shall touch you.'

"Thank you," said the rabbit gratefully. And he lay down close beside the hunter and slept. "Three cruel days passed. More snow and cold bitter wind, with never a chance for food!"

"I will give you the life you would not take," offered the rabbit. "At least one of us shall be saved."

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHON TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW.

DEAR BEE:

I am wondering if anyone of your high-brow provincials ever reads the answers to the lovers, or the unhappily married, or whatever you may call those agony columns, which seem so silly and utterly futile. At least that is what these columns, with their questions and answers, always has seemed to me until right now.

Bee, I remember you telling me one day, when I told you I was going to marry Sam, that you did not think I loved him. After he had his trouble with the "bad booze" I was sure I did not. I was so incensed at his doing something against which I had warned him many times. Then, as he seemed, in his blindness, so brave and more splendid than he had ever been in health, a kind of divine pity filled my heart and for a time I really thought it was love.

But I've come to the conclusion now it was partly remorse and partly pity. I thought I had no right to find any more fault with him when he was paying so dearly for his mistake.

Sam is a nice chap. He wants to do everything in the world for me but, like many other men, he wants to do it in his own way. He is kind, near itself, but it is his kind of kindness, not mine.

Mr. Hamilton is giving him a very good salary and he doesn't want me to work and Bee, I would go mad if I didn't work. I'm doing very well in this advertising department. I have been able to write one or two stock sales advertisements which have brought in a great many women customers.

Mr. Hamilton praised me unstintingly and I think I rather enjoy Sam, for he spoke up quite bravely, saying, "I am sorry, Mr. Hamilton, that you are saying this to Sally, for, thanks to you, I am earning enough to support us both in comfort and I have the same root objection that every other American man has, who has any manhood at all about him, to seeing my wife work."

Before I could control myself my quick temper got the best of me and I said, "I've never seen many American men who weren't perfectly willing that their wives should cook over hot stoves, bend over washboards and do the hardest possible work for long hours if they were doing it to make their husbands comfortable and not for the glorious incentive of a good salary."

Sam gave me a look that was murderous and poor Mr. Hamilton looked troubled. With the intention, however, of pouring oil on the troubled waters he said, "Now look here, Athon, you are not going to expect me to side with you and lose one of the best ad writers I have, are you?"

"I don't expect anyone to side with me, not even Sally herself," said Sam, and he went out of the room and slammed the door, just like an angry child.

I looked at Mr. Hamilton apprehensively, but he only laughed and said, "Never mind, dear, a half-blind man has enough to contend with."

There, I've said more than I had intended, and lest I say more still I am going to close.

N. D. Display Draws Interest In Wisconsin

Great interest is being shown in the Morton county exhibit at the Clark county fair at Neillsville, Wis., this week. Secretary A. Ketter of the Morton county commercial club and Morton Co. Agent Geo. H. Ilse in letters received today.

The fair at Neillsville promises to surpass in attendance and interest the fair last week at Friendship according to County Agent Ilse who says that there has been greater advancement in dairying and diversification than in almost any other part of Wisconsin. As a result of this land prices are high here and farmers are looking for cheaper land.

One farmer who visited the tent Tuesday stated that he had purchased a 45 acre tract of land for $14,000 and that it netted him $2,000 per year. Mr. Ilse told him that if he was in North Dakota in Morton county he could have loaned $10,000 of that amount on interest at 10 percent invested the balance in a 160 acre tract and by carrying on dairy operations like he does in Wisconsin make $4,000 per year.

The men reported that they are constantly being asked whether it would be possible to trade land in Wisconsin for that in Morton county. Most Wisconsin land has reached the point where lime-fertilizers are required. In Morton county this is not necessary so farmers in Wisconsin are anxious to dispose of their land and come to Morton county where they can utilize only the elements that nature provides in abundance. Bucharest, Rumania, Sept. 21.—Complaints of the handling of foreign mail in this country, particularly that coming from the United States, have resulted in action being taken by the International Postal Union. Unless there is improvement, the union says, Rumania may have to withdraw.

One cause of trouble has been the habit of Americans, when writing to friends in Rumania, of enclosing American currency. Mail sorters know this, and many an American letter has been pilfered.

CAPITOL.
Hoot Gibson forges the bucking broncho for a bucking battleship, rides the waves to seasickness and ultimate romance through a series of comedy mishaps mingled with thrilling adventures, and wins a sweetheart and a naval commission, in "Out of Luck," his new Universal attraction, to be shown at the Capitol theater commencing tonight.

For thrills, Hoot Gibson and Howard Truesdell stage a battle that for vividness surpasses any fray staged at Universal City in years. The thrilling rescue of his captain from a madman forms another sensational bit.

THE ELTINGE
Regarding the ostrich and camel, a few kind words are spoken by Ben Turpin who appears in "The Sheik of Araby," the Mack Sennett feature comedy which shows at the Eltinge theatre today and tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

"I had to ride both of them in 'The Sheik of Araby,' and I want to say that the ostrich is some riding bird. It scared the life out of me with its speed when I was astride it, and then almost broke my neck when it fell.

"The camel is just as slow in its movements as the ostrich is fast, and Oh! Boy! What a feeling when the old camel starts to move with you on its back. You don't have to take an ocean voyage to get seasick. Just climb onto the back of one of those 'ships of the desert' and your insides will get all the churning they will stand—and then some." Based on one of the Fighting Blood stories, entitled "The End of a Perfect Fray," and a new Mermaid comedy are also on the program.

CAPITOL. Hoot Gibson forsakes the bucking broncho for a bucking battleship, rides the waves to seasickness and ultimate romance through a series of comedy mishaps mingled with thrilling adventures, and wins a sweetheart and a naval commission, in "Out of Luck," his new Universal attraction, to be shown at the Capitol theater commencing tonight.

For thrills, Hoot Gibson and Howard Truesdell stage a battle that for vividness surpasses any fray staged at Universal City in years. The thrilling rescue of his captain from a madman forms another sensational bit.

THE ELTINGE. Regarding the ostrich and camel, a few kind words are spoken by Ben Turpin who appears in "The Shrike of Araby," the Mack Sennett feature comedy which shows at the Eltinge theatre today and tomorrow, Friday and Saturday.

"I had to ride both of them in 'The Shrike of Araby,' and I want to say that the ostrich is some riding bird. It scared the life out of me with its speed when I was astride it, and then almost broke my neck when it fell.

"The camel is just as slow in its movements as the ostrich is fast, and Oh! Boy! What a feeling when the old camel starts to move with you on its back. You don't have to take an ocean voyage to get seasick. Just climb onto the back of one of those 'ships of the desert' and your insides will get all the churning they will stand—and then some." Round ten of the Fighting Blood stories, entitled "The End of a Perfect Fray," and a new Mermaid comedy are also on the program.

SUFFERED FIVE YEARS FROM KIDNEY.

"I suffered with kidney troubles for five years or more. I could not sleep at night and I was always tired after coming home from work, and my back ached," writes John R. Gordon, Danville, Ill. "I secured some FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS and after a few treatments I felt better and could work with more ease, became stronger and could sleep better." For quick relief from Backache, Rheumatic pains, and Kidney and Bladder trouble use FOLEY KIDNEY PILLS.

THOUGHTS ON THE CONSTITUTION

Yet, after all deductions, it ranks above every other written constitution for the intrinsic excellence of its scheme, its adaptation to the circumstances of the people, the simplicity, brevity, and precision of its language, its judicious mixture of definiteness in principle and elasticity in details.

—James Bryce.

YOUR JOB

Colie Chandler is an engineer on the Illinois Central. He drives locomotive No. 1167. When he comes in from a run, Colie always lingers around the shops until No. 1167 is inspected and groomed for her next trip.

When repairs are needed, Colie can't be driven out of the Cairo shop with a shotgun. The story goes that he hangs around, watching the shopmen as anxiously as a mother hen with her chicks. When repairs involve an overnight job, Colie sleeps in the roundhouse within call.

All this isn't surprising, if you know anything about the average locomotive engineer and his loyalty to his job.

Colie Chandler starts up thinking about the generally accepted notion that the average person works reluctantly and quits with a shout when the whistle blows.

Sometimes we all act that way. But the trouble is with our nerves rather than a desire to put miles between ourselves and our jobs.

For instance, a real dyed-in-the-wool newspaperman never reads the papers as eagerly as when he is on vacation. As if he were afraid that he might miss being in on a big job of reporting.

Work is like an old horse or an auto that has nearly served its day. The driver gets irritable at times and curses and fumes. But just let an outsider start criticizing, and you quickly learn what the owner really thinks of his steed. The owner of the most shot-to-pieces flivver is ever eager to boast about what it can still do.

So with our jobs, draft them. We hate and love them in the same breath. Ask the man returned from vacation.

AWFUL NOISE

The Chinese, before the white man began selling rifles to them, used to amuse us by wearing false faces and making frightful racket, especially with brass gongs, to scare their enemies in battle.

"But maybe the Chinese knew what they were doing, after all. Professor A. M. Law, English scientist, predicts that noises will play an important part in future warfare.

"Noise," says Low, "has a very curious effect on human beings. The more civilized they become, the more noise affects them. Lots of people in the last war were sent into a serious condition by the nerve-racking effect of noise. I can imagine the aggressive use of selected noises to undermine the morale of population and the development of all sorts of anti-noise devices."

Were you ever in a keyed-up nervous condition where even slight noises made you jump? The rasp of a file, the squeak of new shoes, the monotonous drumming of fingers or shrill whistling by a boy—these are described by nervous people as "enough to drive one crazy."

Noise, even in a condition of healthy nerves, is shocking to the nervous system. It's a marvel that people in civilization are as sane as they are, considering the thousands of blows or shocks that reach their nerves daily in the form of noises.

Later, as cities become larger and noisier, there'll be campaigns against the more annoying sounds, just as there's now a "silence zone" near every hospital.

Fortunately, nature is quick to protect us. The miller gets so he ignores or doesn't hear the rumble of his mill-wheels. So, too, we get so the fearful din of civilization passes in one ear and out the other without our noticing it. This is because the power of receiving a sensation becomes more or less paralyzed by repetition.

REASONABLE THEORY

John Brubacher came to America from Switzerland in the year 1710. The other day 1500 of his descendants held a reunion to honor his memory. If all the people of 1710 had that many descendants the earth's population would be 1500 times as many as it was 213 years ago.

Old-time economists had a theory that if nature didn't kill so many of us by wars, famine, pestilence and the like, population would multiply beyond the earth's ability to support it. The World War and such catastrophes as the recent earthquake in Japan seem to be part of the workings of this theory.

FURNISHES CONVERSATION

The champion home brewer is discovered in Haverhill, Mass., and gets 30 days in the workhouse. His wife testifies in court that he drinks 12 quarts of "red wine" every day.

There is no particular editorial moral in this, which seems to be characteristic of the most interesting things of life. However, a man who can drink 12 quarts of wine a day does a public service in the way of furnishing material for conversation to enliven dull evenings. So we pass the news along.

TALK WITHOUT THOUGHT

An English girl, daughter of the Earl of Birkenhead, visited America. She says she was most impressed by our "love of talk." She got the impression from the many speech-makers she heard and the patience with which audiences listened to them.

Rodger Dolan, who is having liver trouble lately, says this patience is because so few speeches contain ideas, being mostly talk, talk—repetitions of old thoughts. Thought seems painful, both for broadcasters and receivers.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues which are being discussed in the press of the day.

CALL MODIFIED.

A modification to the call for the state convention, making it optional on the counties whether they will elect new delegates appears on the front page of this issue.

The Emmons County Executive committee has not yet decided, not having had an opportunity to get together. A consensus seems to favor sending the old delegates, however, and it is unlikely that the committee after taking the matter up, will call for special precinct meetings and for a county meeting to elect new delegates.

The majority of the farmers are busy and will be so until snow flies, and they are, practically unanimously, satisfied with the delegates who were elected for the Fargo convention. If members throughout the county desire special precinct meetings and will take the initiative at once the county executive committee will not doubt issue the call for precinct meetings and a county convention. Otherwise, according to the individual opinion of two of the members of the committee, the old delegates, Roy A. Yeater, S. F. Wright and Geo. W. Lynn will be given credentials to attend the state convention as delegates from Emmons—Emmons County Free Press.

WHAT IS AGED?

The attention of the Evening Tribune has been called by a sprightly young person of 63 to a deplorable tendency of the press to misuse the word "aged." A headline proclaims that an aged woman has been hurt in an accident. The story gives her age as 48.

It is a delicate matter to decide at what point a man becomes aged. To make the same calculation with regard to a woman requires even more wisdom and tact.

Practically all the men and women who do big things and preside over great concerns are well past the mark set by the headline writer. A woman's grandmother dresses with more "chic" than her fatter granddaughter. White hair falls daily under the shears of the bob artist. The golf links are filled with youngsters of 65 who can give their sons handicaps in the game.

What is aged? It isn't, any more. —Des Moines Evening Tribune.

SPECIALIZING THE SECRET.

Up in the Wadena district farmers are getting an average of $30 an acre for sweet corn besides retaining the fodder for ensilage. Up in Pennington county, the farmers are pleased with their experience. At year with sugar beets and there will be a much larger acreage contracted next year. Everywhere the dairy cow is profitable, and every section can find profit-making crops if only the effort be made.—Morris Sun.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Roberts Barton

"I will tell you why there is a rabbit in the moon," said Umpeeth, the Indian medicine man, after he had taken a long pull at his pipe. Nancy and Nick sat as quietly as they knew how, waiting for the story. They had seen the rabbit through Umpeeth's magic glass.

"It was this way," went on Umpeeth. "Once upon a time a mighty hunter came to the place where the plains and mountains met. He had made many arrows and well he deserved the name of mighty for he saw he killed, and he saw much, for his eye was swifter than lightning."

"But winter came quickly that year. It tore down the mountain passes and out onto the plains like a white fury while the cottonwood trees were still in leaf and before the wind berries had withered."

"Mister Mighty Hunter had lost his way; he was hungry and almost frozen and it was night!"

"At last he found a cave, and having flint stone and a few dry twigs he made a tiny fire. Then he dug under the snow and found some pine branches and made a greater fire."

"Then he lay down to sleep. It was warm in the cave now."

"By and by something soft rubbed against his cheek."

"Mister Mighty Hunter sat up. 'Ah!' he said. 'Here is food of the best kind!' It was a pure white rabbit!"

"Then he stopped. 'No, no, I can't eat such a helpless creature. Lie down, little rabbit, and keep warm as long as you like. No harm shall come to you.'"

"Thank you," said the rabbit gratefully. And he lay down close beside the hunter and slept.

"Three cruel days passed. More snow and cold bitter wind, with never a chance for food!"

"I will give you the life you would not take," offered the rabbit. "At least one of us shall be saved."

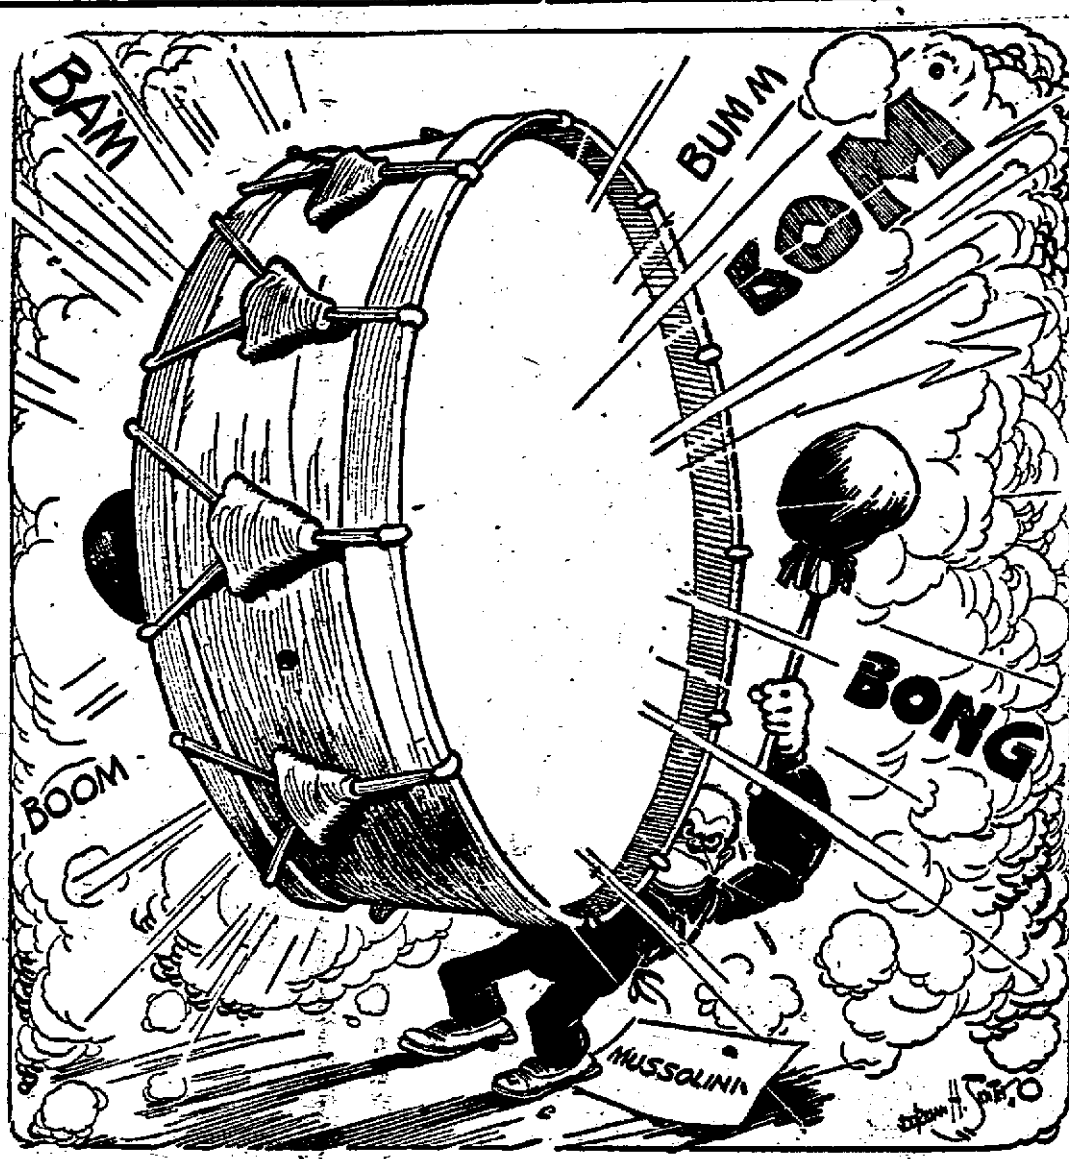

"But the hunter would not have it so. 'The rabbit hurried himself into the glowing embers before the hunter. 'The great hunter thought of his squaw and papoose waiting for him, and at last partook of the food that was offered."

"Suddenly a fairy stood before him. The little white rabbit is on the moon," she said. "With this magic glass you can see it. Take it and tell your children's children never to be unkind to an animal. They must never forget the rabbit on the moon. Go now! The storm is over. You are safe."

"The mighty hunter turned and left the cave. But ere he did so, he threw his bow and arrows on the fire!"

"That's a nice story," said Nancy and Nick. "Thank you, Umpeeth. We shall remember the rabbit on the moon." (To Be Continued)

LETTER FROM SALLY ATHERTON TO BEATRICE GRIMSHAW.

DEAR BEE:

I am wondering if anyone of your high-brow provincials ever reads the answers to the lovers, or the unhappily married, or whatever you may call those agony columns, which seem so silly and utterly futile. At least that is what these columns, with their questions and answers, always has seemed to me until now.

Bee, I remember you telling me one day, when I told you I was going to marry Sam, that you did not think I loved him. After he had his trouble with the "bad booze" I was sure I did not. I was so incensed at his doing something against which I had warned him many times. Then, as he seemed, in his blindness, so brave and more splendid than he had ever been in health, a kind of divine pity filled my heart and for a time I really thought it was love.

But I've come to the conclusion now it was partly remorse and partly pity. I thought I had no right to find any more fault with him when he was paying so dearly for his mistake.

Sam is a nice chap. He wants to do everything in the world for me but, like many other men, he wants to do it in his own way. He is kind and kind, but it is his kind of kindness. Mr. Hamilton is giving him a very good salary and he doesn't want me to work and Bee, I would go mad if I didn't work. I'm doing very well in this advertising department. I have been able to write one or two stock sales advertisements which have brought in a great many women customers.

Mr. Hamilton praised me unstintingly and I think it rather annoyed Sam, for he spoke up quite brusquely, saying, "I am sorry, Mr. Hamilton, that you are saying that to Sally for, thanks to you, I am beginning enough to support us both in comfort and I have the same root objection that every other American man has, who has any manhood at all about him, to seeing my wife before I could control myself my quick temper got the best of me and said, 'I've never seen many American men who weren't perfectly willing that their wives should cook over hot stoves, bend over washboards and do the hardest possible work for long hours if they were doing it to make their husbands comfortable and not for the glorious incentive of a good salary.'"

"Sam gave me a look that was murderous and poor Mr. Hamilton looked troubled. With the intention, however, of pouring oil on the troubled waters he said, 'Now look here, Atherton, you are not going to expect me to side with you and lose one of the best and writers I have, are you?'

"I don't expect anyone to side with me, not even Sally herself," said Sam, and he went out of the room and slammed the door, just like an angry child.

I looked at Mr. Hamilton apprehensively, but he only laughed and said, "Never mind, dear, a half-blind man has enough to contend with."

There, I've said more than I had intended, and lest I say more still I am going to close.

SALLY.

N. D. Display Draws Interest In Wisconsin

Great interest is being shown in the Morton county exhibit at the Clark county fair at Neillsville, Wis., this week, says Secretary B. A. Ketter of the Morton county commercial club and Morton Co. Agent Geo. H. Ilse in letters received today.

The fair at Neillsville promises to surpass in attendance and interest the fair last week at Fridley, according to County Agent Ilse, who says that there has been greater advancement in dairying and diversification than in almost any other part of Wisconsin. As a result of this land prices are high here and farmers are looking for cheaper land. One farmer who visited the tent Tuesday stated that he had purchased a 45 acre tract of land for $14,000 and that it netted him $2,000 per year. Mr. Ilse told him that if he was in North Dakota in Morton county he could have loaned $10,000 of that amount on "interest at 10 percent" invested the balance in a 160 acre tract and by carrying on dairy operations like he does in Wisconsin make $4,000 per year.

The men reported that they are constantly being asked whether it would be possible to trade land in Wisconsin for that in Morton county. Most Wisconsin land has reached the point where lime fertilizers are required. In Morton county this is not necessary so farmers in Wisconsin are anxious to dispose of their land and come to Morton county where they can utilize only the elements that nature provides in abundance. YANKS CLINCH PENNANT IN HARD FIGHT

Cleveland Is Their Closest Rival For American League Banner

Chicago, Sept. 21.—The Yankees finally won after a desperate struggle with St. Louis Browns. The score was 4 to 3 yesterday and clinched the American League pennant for them for the third consecutive year. No matter if they lost every additional game and Cleveland, their closest rival won every game, they would still be ahead. The New York Giants were kept idle in rain but lost nothing thereby as Cincinnati stayed put, splitting a double header with Philadelphia. The Reds lost the first, 2 to 0, and won the second 8 to 7, in 11 innings.

Brooklyn trimmed Chicago 9 to 7 in a hard hitting battle and made it two out of three in Chicago. The Chicago Americans also being defeated 5 to 3 by the Philadelphia Athletics, whose victory put them in a tie for sixth place.

In Boston the Detroit Tigers won the first game of a double-header from the Red Sox, 5 to 4, while the other game was called in the tenth inning with the score 2 to 2, because of darkness.

BURKMAN IS OUT FOR U PRACTICE

Captain Reports to Davis at University Field; Team Working Hard

Grand Forks, N. D., Sept. 21.—Walter "Baldy" Burkman, all-conference half and captain of the 1923 University of North Dakota football squad, reported for work yesterday. Friends of the backfield star expect him to have his greatest year. The Hibbing, Minn., athlete will be playing his fourth year of college football. He is in excellent condition.

As only three of the regular line-up were lost by graduation last spring, the Flickertail aggregation will be made up of thoroughly experienced men this year, and a highly successful season is anticipated. Many new men are out for the team and there is much strong material.

SAY WORLD TONGUE IS POPULAR

Sponsors Declare Esperanto Is Coming to be Widely Used

Dresden, Sept. 21.—Original poetry in Esperanto, the universal language, has begun to appear in polyglot centers where Esperanto is popular. Many national songs of various lands have also been given an Esperanto text and published with the words and music.

In pointing out the advancement made in Esperanto toward popularity in nearly all parts of the world, advocates contend that Esperanto shorthand writing has been taken up by a great many young persons as a by-profession, and they predict that eventually their language will be taught in schools.

According to Esperantists there are more than 2,000 persons in Dresden alone who read, write and speak the new language. There are many Esperantists also in Leipzig, where an Esperanto Institute was founded several years ago.

The headquarters of the Esperanto world union is in Geneva, with branches in all the cities and principal towns of most countries. The Esperantists have their own newspapers with subscribers throughout the world. Translations of famous authors and original books may be purchased in Esperanto, one of the large publishing houses in Leipzig having one department devoted to products of this language.

The inventor and founder of Esperanto was Dr. L. Zamenhof, a Russian physician born in 1859.

Col. Rice Says One Trip to Soviet Russia Would Cure Radicals and Socialists

Atty. Cuthbert Points Out Superior Features of American Constitution

"In every European country the people get the minimum of return for the maximum of effort, while in America the reverse is true," said Col. C. A. Rice in speaking at the Constitution Week observance at the Auditorium last evening.

Gov. R. A. Nestos presided at the meeting. F. T. Cuthbert of Duluth, formerly of Devils Lake, gave an address, and P. G. Harrington reviewed proper flag etiquette. Henry Hattvorsen directed the chorus singing, while Mrs. Frank Barnes and Mrs. D. C. Seethorn sang. Mrs. Arthur Bauer played the accompaniments.

Colonel Rice, who has traveled through most of the countries of Europe, gave a graphic description of conditions as he had found them—describing the Soviet regime in Russia, the tyranny, pestilence, poverty, and similar conditions existing in that great nation at the north of Europe as well as in the central European countries.

"I wish I could get every parlor socialist or person dissatisfied with the present American constitution to Soviet Russia for a few weeks residence," said the speaker, "and I would guarantee that they would have no desire to do away with the present American Constitution and establish a Soviet government—a government that is run as tyrannically as any monarchy or oligarchy of the past ages."

Conditions in Odessa.

"Recently when I visited Odessa, all the freedom, prosperity, beauty, and plenty of the past had disappeared," declared the speaker, "in their place I found poverty of the most dire kind. It was no unusual sight to see people lying dead on the streets of Odessa," asserted Colonel Rice, "for all those who do not sympathize with the Soviet authorities, high or low, are simply allowed to starve to death while the Soviet authorities feast on the wealth of the land and gamble with rubles—gold rubles, not paper ones. I have seen the rulers take a thousand gold rubles on a game of pitch and toss," declared Colonel Rice, "while the streets were filled with thousands begging for a crust of bread."

The contrast afforded by the rule in Russia, where there was no constitution to protect the personal rights of the people in their pursuit of life, liberty, and happiness and the government in the United States where the constitution lists the rights of the people while the supreme court of the nation protects them was repeatedly emphasized by the speaker. "Why is it that the radicals who would do away with our constitution and destroy our supreme court are the very first to invoke its protection of their personal rights when in trouble?" inquired the speaker.

Mr. Cuthbert speaks. In a masterly address near the opening of the program Attorney Cuthbert, former president of the North Dakota Bar association, traced the development of the constitution from its inception in the time of the Roman Empire and on through the ages to its present completeness.

He pointed out that the American fathers had the unwritten constitution of England and the Magna Charta on which to base their document although the letters of Alexander Hamilton, the master mind of the fathers, and James Madison, in The Federalist showed them to be thoroughly conversant with all the documents of the past ages from the wonderful governmental system of the ancient Romans to the more modern writings of the French and English authorities on constitutional law.

Mr. Cuthbert declared that the establishment of a representative form of government was the brightest star shining through the masterly document given to the American people by its framers. He pointed out that the system of checks and balances allowed no particular branch of government to usurp the rights of the other and that the supreme court of the United States stood ready to interpret any dispute.

PROHIBITION OFFICERS GET BIG HAUL

Jamestown and Vicinity Yield Large Number of Moonshine Makers

SEVEN TRIED

TWO SENTENCES SUSPENDED

Until Threshing Is Completed

State and Federal Law Enforcement Officials lately made several big hauls in the neighborhood of Jamestown, according to a report received today by the states attorney's office.

Roman Cysewski's farm, south of Jamestown, was raided and a twenty gallon copper still, one coil, four gallons of wine, one pint of moonshine, and two quarts of mash were taken. Fifty gallons of mash were destroyed by the officials. Cysewski pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace J. A. Murphy and was sentenced ninety days in jail and fined two hundred dollars.

Ed Jaskowski, a farmer, living near Jamestown was raided, a twenty gallon copper still, one fifth of a gallon jug of moonshine, one quart of moonshine and one half gallon of grain and sugar mash were seized. Fifty nine gallons of mash and a fifty gallon barrel were destroyed. Jaskowski pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace Murphy sentence being suspended until Oct. 6, to allow him to get his crop threshed.

At Mrs. Jno. Mutz' farm south east of Jamestown a twenty gallon still, two quarts of rhuabarb wine, and three quarts of mash were seized. Ninety nine gallons of mash were destroyed along with two fifty gallon barrels. This case is to be continued.

John Panpuch's farm, when raided, yielded one copper still with two coils. Panpuch pleaded guilty and his sentence was suspended until Oct. 6 to allow him to finish threshing.

In Jamestown the following raids were made:

HIGH COURT HAS CASES OF LITTLE IMPORT
Result Is Delay of Suits For Sometimes Eighteen Months—Progress Is Slow

Washington, Sept. 21.—The Supreme Court is making no material progress in clearing its docket. When it meets October 1 to begin its next term it will find substantially as many cases awaiting consideration as a year ago.

This condition is not due to lack of effort, for no matter how fast the court speeds up its disposition of cases the accumulation upon its docket keeps pace. The real trouble, in the opinion of attorneys practicing before the court, is that the appellate jurisdiction of the highest tribunal is sought by many litigants whose controversies do not present questions worthy of its consideration, and who should not be permitted to consume its time.

Congress has from time to time attempted to solve the problem by legislation, but laws are slow in reforming human nature. As long as the court is open to those who would use it to delay the execution of sentences or take a last desperate chance to have an adverse decision reversed, its dockets will be crowded with cases in which an appeal is asked merely to postpone the inevitable day when the prison doors must close on the petitioner, or when a judgment must be paid.

Owing to the congestion of business a case filed today will not be reached by the court for argument within 18 months unless it is included in that comparatively small number advanced for hearing out of turn. Although substantially 100 more cases were disposed of last term than in 1918, the court docketed during that period 50 more than in 1918, and had at the end of the term undisposed of only 40 less cases than it had at a corresponding period five years ago. The comparative insignificance of this inroad into the accumulation of business is evident when it is known that the number of cases annually docketed is in excess of 1,000. Should the court be able to maintain the progress made during the last five years before its docket is cleared.

It apparently was the original intention that the time of the court would be given to the decision of constitutional questions and legal controversies of national importance, and the establishment of precedents in disputed features of new laws. But when Congress attempted to assist in that design by restricting the causes in which lower courts grant appeals, it really opened a new avenue for crowding. It gave the court discretion to itself to determine when it would grant appeals in those cases in which appeals were not granted by the lower courts, so that no endless periods of time are consumed hearing the petitions of litigants whose contentions are found in the end to be of insufficient general importance to warrant the supreme court in reviewing them.

The court cannot determine whether any particular application asking an appeal under a writ of certiorari possesses sufficient merit to warrant it without an examination of the papers submitted. Each Justice therefore must prepare himself to discuss the case at a weekly conference, giving to each application substantially as much time as would be required to dispose of a case by a formal decision. Those cases which the court does decide to hear must then be studied a second time when they come up for argument and decision.

Naturalize 30 Each Day In Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Despite the stringent immigration restrictions of the last few years, applications for naturalization here have increased to more than 30 daily. Deputy Clerk Thomas V. Sell has announced:

"Where formerly immigrants remained unnaturalized for years after arrival in this country, they now take out their papers as soon as they are eligible," Mr. Sell declared. "The reason for this is that manufacturers and other employers of immigrant labor are becoming increasingly insistent that their employees be Americanized before they are employed."

St. Louis, Sept. 21.—The St. Louis Medical society, in a report of its free clinic for poor children this year, stated that slight to complete correction was accomplished in 94 of 97 cases already disposed of, only three children being declared beyond assistance.

The clinic which the society conducts each year, beginning in April, is said to be the only one of its kind in the United States, for free hospital, medical and surgical care is provided. During the present year children from states throughout the west and south are being treated. More than a score of children, still under treatment, will remain at hospitals for several months, and a few for more than a year. Half a hundred other children still are receiving treatment at clinics. In some cases as many as four operations had to be performed to effect a cure.

SAY WORLD TONGUE IS POPULAR

Sponsors Declare Esperanto Is Coming to be Widely Used

Dresden, Sept. 21.—Original poetry in Esperanto, the universal language, has begun to appear in polyglot centers where Esperanto is popular. Many national songs of various lands have also been given an Esperanto text and published with the words and music.

In pointing out the advancement made in Esperanto toward popularity in nearly all parts of the world, advocates contend that Esperanto shorthand writing has been taken up by a great many young persons as a by-profession, and they predict that eventually their language will be taught in schools.

According to Esperantists there are more than 2,000 persons in Dresden alone who read, write and speak the new language. There are many Esperantists also in Leipzig, where an Esperanto Institute was founded several years ago.

The headquarters of the Esperanto world union is in Geneva, with branches in all the cities and principal towns of most countries. The Esperantists have their own newspapers with subscribers throughout the world. Translations of famous authors and original books may be purchased in Esperanto, one of the large publishing houses in Leipzig having one department devoted to products of this language.

The inventor of Esperanto was a Polish physician.

Cpl. Rice Says One Trip to Soviet Russia Would Cure Radicals and Socialists

Atty. Cuthbert Points Out Superior Features of American Constitution

"In every European country, the people get the minimum of return for the maximum of effort, while in America the reverse is true," said Col. C. A. Rice in speaking at the Constitution Week observance at the Auditorium last evening.

Gov. R. A. Nestos presided at the meeting. F. T. Cuthbert of Duluth, formerly of Devils Lake, gave an address, and P. G. Harrington reviewed proper flag etiquette. Henry Halvorsen directed the chorus singing, while Mrs. Frank Barnes and Mrs. D. C. Scrothorn sang. Mrs. Arthur Bauer played the accompaniments.

Colonel Rice, who has traveled through most of the countries of Europe, gave a graphic description of conditions as he had found them—describing the Soviet regime in Russia, the tyranny, pestilence, poverty, and similar conditions existing in that great nation at the north of Europe as well as in the central European countries.

"I wish I could get every parlor socialist or person dissatisfied with the present American constitution to Soviet Russia for a few weeks residence," and the speaker "and would guarantee that they would have no desire to do away with the present American Constitution and establish a Soviet government—a government that is run as tyrannically as any monarchy or oligarchy of the past ages."

Conditions in Odessa.

"Recently when I visited Odessa, all the freedom, prosperity, beauty, and plenty of the past had disappeared," declared the speaker, "in their place I found poverty of the most dire kind. It was no unusual sight to see people lying dead on the streets of Odessa," asserted Colonel Rice, "for all those who do not sympathize with the Soviet authorities, high or low, are simply allowed to starve to death while the Soviet authorities feast on the wealth of the land and gamble with rubles—gold rubles on a game of pitch and toss," declared Colonel Rice, "while the streets were filled with thousands begging for a crust of bread."

The contrast afforded by the rule in Russia, where there was no constitution to protect the personal rights of the people in their pursuit of life, liberty, and happiness and the government in the United States where the constitution lists the rights of the people while the supreme court of the nation protects them was repeatedly emphasized by the speaker.

"Why is it that the radicals who would do away with our constitution and destroy our supreme court are the very first to invoke its protection of their personal rights when in trouble?" inquired the speaker.

Mr. Cuthbert speaks near the opening of the program. Attorney Cuthbert, former president of the North Dakota Bar association, traced the development of the constitution from its inception in the time of the Roman Empire and on through the ages to its present completeness.

He pointed out that the American fathers had the unwritten constitution of England and the Magna Charta on which to base their document although the fathers of the American Republic, the master mind of the fathers, and James Madison, in the Federalist showed them to be thoroughly conversant with all the documents of the past ages from the wonderful governmental system of the ancient Romans to the more modern writings of the French and English authorities on constitutional law.

Mr. Cuthbert declared that the establishments of a representative form of government was the brightest star shining through the masterly document given to the American people by its framers. He pointed out that the system of checks and balances allowed a particular branch of government to usurp the rights of the other and the supreme court of the United States ready to interpret.

PROHIBITION OFFICERS GET BIG HAUL

Jamestown and Vicinity Yield Large Number of Moonshine Makers

State and Federal Law Enforcement Officials lately made several big hauls in the neighborhood of Jamestown, according to a report received today by the states attorney's office.

Roman Cysewski's farm, south of Jamestown, was raided and a twenty gallon copper still, one coil, four gallons of wine, one pint of moonshine, and two quarts of mash were taken. Fifty gallons of mash were destroyed by the officials. Cysewski pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace J. A. Murphy and was sentenced ninety days in jail and fined two hundred dollars.

Ed Jaskowski, a farmer, living near Jamestown was raided, a twenty gallon copper still, one fifth of a gallon jug of moonshine, one quart of moonshine and one half gallon of grain and sugar mash were seized. Fifty nine gallons of mash and a fifty gallon barrel were destroyed. Jaskowski pleaded guilty before Justice of the Peace J. A. Murphy and was sentenced ninety days in jail and fined two hundred dollars.

At Mrs. Jno. Mutz' farm south east of Jamestown a twenty gallon still, two quarts of rhuibar wine, and three quarts of mash were seized. Ninety nine gallons of mash were destroyed along with two fifty gallon barrels. This case is to be continued.

John Pannuch's farm, when raided, yielded one copper still with two coils. Pannuch pleaded guilty and his sentence was suspended until Oct. 6 to allow him to finish threshing.

In Jamestown the following raids were made:

SEVEN TRIED

Two Sentences Suspended Until Threshing Is Completed

HIGH COURT HAS CASES OF LITTLE IMPORT

Result Is Delay of Suits For Sometimes Eighteen Months—Progress Is Slow

Washington, Sept. 21.—The Supreme Court is making no material progress in clearing its docket. When it meets October 1 to begin its next term it will find substantially as many cases awaiting consideration as a year ago.

This condition is not due to lack of effort, for no matter how fast the court speeds up its disposition of cases the accumulation upon its docket keeps pace. The real trouble, in the opinion of attorneys practicing before the court, is that the appellate jurisdiction of the highest tribunal is sought by many litigants whose controversies do not present questions worthy of its consideration, and who should not be permitted to consume its time.

Congress has from time to time attempted to solve the problem by legislation, but laws are slow in reforming human nature and the court is open to those who would use it to delay the execution of sentences or take a last desperate chance to have an adverse decision reversed, its dockets will be crowded with cases in which an appeal is asked merely to postpone the inevitable day when the prison doors must close on the petitioner, or when a judgment must be paid.

Owing to the congestion of business cases the court will not be reached by the court for argument within 18 months unless it is included in that comparatively small number advanced for hearing out of turn. Although substantially 300 more cases were disposed of last term than in 1918, the court docketed during that period 60 more than in 1918, and had at the end of the term undisposed of only 40 less cases than it had at a corresponding period five years ago. The comparative insignificance of this record into the accumulation of business is evident when it is known that the number of cases annually docketed is in excess of 1,000. Should the court be able to maintain the progress made during the last five years before its docket is cleared.

It apparently was the original intention that the time of the court would be given to the decision of constitutional questions and legal controversies of national importance, and the establishment of precedents in disputed features of new laws. But when Congress attempted to assist in that design by restricting the causes in which lower courts grant appeals, it really opened a new avenue for overcrowding. It gave the court discretion to itself to determine when it would grant appeals in those cases in which appeals were not granted by the lower courts, so that now endless periods of time are consumed hearing the petitions of litigants whose contentions are found in the end to be of insufficient general importance to warrant the supreme court in reviewing them.

The court cannot determine whether any particular application asking an appeal under a writ of certiorari possesses sufficient merit to warrant it without an examination of the papers submitted. Each Justice therefore must prepare himself to discuss the case at a weekly conference, giving to each application substantially as much time as would be required to dispose of a case by a formal decision. Those cases which the court does decide to hear must then be studied a second time when they come up for argument and decision.

The residence of Felix Schneider and wife was raided, eleven gallons of moonshine being taken. Schneider pleaded guilty and was sentenced six months in jail and fined two hundred dollars. Mrs. Schneider was held over for district court and released on $100 bond.

Frank Skroch's home was raided and three quarts of moonshine found. Skroch was bound over to District Court.

At the home of Lewis Rudnick five quarts of moonshine were found. Rudnick was bound over to District Court and released on $500 bond.

Many States Represented At Free Clinic

St. Louis, Sept. 21.—The St. Louis Medical society, in a report of its free clinic for poor children this year, stated that slight to complete correction was accomplished in 94 of cases already disposed of, only three children being declared beyond assistance.

The clinic which the society conducts each year, beginning in April, is said to be the only one of its kind in the United States. For free hospital, medical and surgical care is provided. During the present year children from states throughout the west and south are being treated.

More than a score of children, still under treatment, will remain at hospital for several months, and a few for more than a year. Half a hundred other children still are receiving treatment at clinics.

In some cases as many as four operations had to be performed to effect a cure.

Naturalize 30 Each Day In Chicago

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Despite the stringent immigration restrictions of the last few years, applications for naturalization here have increased more than 30 daily, Deputy Clerk Thomas V. Sell has announced.

"Where formerly immigrants remained unnaturalized for years after arrival in this country, they now take out their papers as soon as they are eligible," Mr. Sell declared. "The reason for this is that manufacturers and other employers of immigrant labor are becoming increasingly insistent that their employees be Americanized before they are employed."

MOUSTACHE IS LACKING - CANT LEAVE COUNTRY

Dane Is Held in Germany Until He Can Grow Moustache to Look Like Picture

Hamburg, Sept. 21.—A lost moustache is forcing a Copenhagen man to take a prolonged vacation in Hamburg. The Dane came to Germany wearing an enormous turned-up moustache. His friends joked him about it. People stared at him in the cafes. The Kaiser Wilhelm brand of upper-lip decoration is not popular in the very modern commercial city of Hamburg. It is too intentional. In desperation the Dane had his moustache shaved off, and found his lot much pleasanter until he reached the German border on his way back home. The heavily moustached chap, on his passport photograph did not in the least resemble the smooth-faced modern appearing Dane. Passport officials turned him back, and detectives gave him the third degree. In his changed appearance they found resemblance to a famous international swindler. The Dane was too much ashamed of the incident to seek aid from Danish officials, and is now patiently growing a new moustache which will enable him to measure up to his passport photograph.

Mr. Halvorsen was named as one of the delegates and was asked to designate the other two.

Death Toll Goes To 4 in Explosion

Washington, Sept. 21.—The death early today of James Kendig, of Sal-unda, Pa., one of the bureau of Standards injured in the laboratory explosion brought the number killed to four. Five others injured remained in the hospital in more or less critical condition.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 21.—The four experts at the bureau of standards who lost their lives in the explosion at the bureau yesterday and the six others injured had just completed an experiment by which 500 gallons of gasoline could be saved in a study of evaporation, bureau officials announced today. They had discovered the cause and had prepared full charts of great economic value. The experiment had been proceeding for several months and had just reached the state of a final report on the findings.

Secretary Herbert Hoover has ordered an investigation of the accident which officials believe was caused by the accumulation of gas set off in some manner by a spark. The exact cause was expected to remain in doubt until the injured had recovered sufficiently to be questioned.

I never saw anything like it. One man who had been operated on for gall stones and had them come back, took it and says his symptoms are all gone now and he swears he is cured. It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments, including appendicitis. $10,000 WILL BUY ISLANDS AND TITLES

South Mediterranean Islands and Titles Offered by Real Estate Dealer

Cagliari, Sardinia, Sept. 21.—Why marry a worthless prince when you can buy an island principally together with the title, and bestow them on a husband of your own choice? is the argument an enterprising Sardinian realtor has used in trying to sell a Mediterranean island to an American woman. The woman was not in the market for a title, either with or without a prince, but she promised to mention the alluring prospect to some of her friends, and thus extracted further information about the property from the enterprising real estate man. He withheld the name, but assured her the island is well located and is highly desirable both as a summer and winter residence. It has an old castle which is in need of repair, several hundred acres of vineyard and farmland badly in need of modernization, and two villages, also badly in need of repair, with about 500 inhabitants. The entire property is offered for $10,000, the princely name included, with a guarantee that the present holder of the title will legally sanction its transfer.

Former Fargo Man Held in Alaska

Fargo, Sept. 21.—A. R. Watkins, city auditor, yesterday received a letter from Robert Edwards, former Fargo college student, in which he stated that he was being held for trial at Valdez, Alaska on a charge of killing a man and asked that a statement of his character while here be forwarded to him. He declared in his letter that he was "charged with the crime of another fellow, who killed a man while on the trail with me."

Mr. Watkins declared, that although he was not intimately acquainted with Edwards, the latter seemed to be of splendid character. Fern Monson, former classmate, stated that Edwards had always been active in Y. M. C. A. work and "was not at all the sort of fellow to kill a man." Major M. F. Steele, for whom Edwards worked while going to school here, declared his character was excellent.
